1.1. What is data mining? In your answer, address the following:

- (a) Is it another hype?
- (b) Is it a simple transformation of technology developed from databases, statistics, and machine learning?
- (c) Explain how the evolution of database technology led to data mining.
- (d) Describe the steps involved in data mining when viewed as a process of knowledge discovery.

Answer:

Data mining refers to the process or method that extracts or "mines" interesting knowledge or patterns from large amounts of data.

- (a) Is it another hype?
Data mining is not another hype. Instead, the need for data mining has arisen due to the wide availability of huge amounts of data and the imminent need for turning such data into useful information and knowledge. Thus, data mining can be viewed as the result of the natural evolution of information technology.
- (b) Is it a simple transformation of technology developed from databases, statistics, and machine learning?
No. Data mining is more than a simple transformation of technology developed from databases, statistics, and machine learning. Instead, data mining involves an integration, rather than a simple transformation, of techniques from multiple disciplines such as database technology, statistics, machine learning, high-performance computing, pattern recognition, neural networks, data visualization, information retrieval, image and signal processing, and spatial data analysis.
- (c) Explain how the evolution of database technology led to data mining.
The evolution of database technology led to data mining through the development of data warehousing and data mining tools.
